Soviet Russia Opposes UNO Intervention In Iran Case

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The United Nations Security Council formally agreed today to discuss the tense military-political situation in Iran, Greece and Indonesia at its next meeting.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Soviet Russia in a letter to the United Nations Security Council today said that she was "categorically opposed" to the international peace body's taking up Iran's case.

Disclosing Soviet strategy in dealing with Iran's appeal for council action to halt the alleged intervention of the Red army in Iran's internal affairs, the Soviet answer declared the Iranian charges groundless and incorrect.

Instead of United Nations intervention in the affair, Russia proposed that the differences between Tehran and Moscow be worked out in direct negotiations between the two countries.

Letter Explains Stand

The Russian position was set forth in a letter from Russia's chief delegate, Vice Foreign Commissar Andrei Vishinsky, to Norman J. O. Makin of Australia, president of the Security Council.

The statement was released by the U.N.O. information service just two hours before the Security Council was to go into session to decide whether it should consider not only Iran's charges against Russia but also Russia's charges of British interference in the affairs of Greece and Indonesia.

Although Russia thus voiced her opposition to council consideration of Iran's case, she does not have a veto on whether it will be discussed.

The question of taking up all three cases will be decided by a majority vote of the 11 members and unanimity is not required among the five principal powers.

U. S. Delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., reiterating the stand taken yesterday by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, told the American delegation early today he was prepared to support a proposal for council consideration of all three cases and for holding a hearing on them as soon as possible.

Vishinsky's note offered five main points to bear out his contention that the Security Council should refuse to entertain the Iranian appeal. These were:

1. The Iranian government failed to substantiate its charges made last November in a complaint to the Soviet Union. This complaint was the same as that presented to the council. The Soviet "categorically refused" the Iranian charges in its reply of Nov. 26. The note said that the Iranian government, in another message Dec. 1, "expressed its satisfaction" that Soviet officials were not interfering in Iran's internal affairs.

2. "Equally in contradiction with reality" is the statement of the Iranian delegation that efforts to negotiate were fruitless. The Soviet answer said Iran not only attempted to negotiate with Russia, but did.

3. The presence of Soviet troops on Iranian soil is legitimate, as Iran gave permission in the Soviet-Iranian treaty of Feb. 29, 1921, and the Soviet-British-Iranian treaties of 1942. Events in Azerbaijan have

COMMISSIONERS SEE GOVERNOR ON 'TB' PROBLEM

LISBON, Jan. 25.—Columbian county officials were in Columbus today in an effort to secure state aid to relieve the financial crisis in connection with the care of Columbian county's tuberculosis patients.

The board of commissioners, headed by Kim Crawford, president, Clarence L. Robinson and John E. Smith, Auditor I. J. Vorndran and Prosecutor Frank W. Springer were to meet with Governor Frank Lausche at 10:30 this morning, and accompanied by Dr. Louis Mark of the Rocky Glen sanatorium and a physician of the state department of health, were to present the plight of Columbian county's tubercular patients, a situation which also exists in many other counties of the state.

Following the board's visit to the Rocky Glen sanatorium on Tuesday, Mr. Crawford stated, "the condition of the county's patients in that institution is such that there are none of them that can be removed or brought home at this time. So, we sincerely hope for some results from this visit to Columbus to relieve the situation."

The officials expect to urge Gov. Lausche to call a special session of the legislature, and to include in the call an appropriation covering approximately $35,000 in overcharges owed this county by the state for care of county patients and inmates in state institutions.

According to law the county should pay only for the actual cost of keeping inmates, but a flat rate of $4.50 per day has been paid by the county, an amount said to be excessive.

The county officials, who went to Columbus Thursday afternoon, also met last night with commissioners from other counties in a discussion relative to proposed legislation regarding coal stripping and the levelling of stripped lands.

John Kane, chief assistant district attorney, said the youths sent a letter to Forker on Oct. 17, demanding $50,000, and followed it on Oct. 24 with a letter which demanded $75,000.

Beauregard Welcomed At Dinner Thursday Evening

Frank M. Beauregard, who recently assumed his duties as manager of operations of the Mullins plants in Salem and Warren, was guest of honor at a dinner Thursday evening in the Lape Knotty Pine room.

Presented by Andrew MacLeod, vice president, secretary and treasurer of the Mullins Mfg. Corp., who arranged the dinner and presided at the brief program following.

Beauregard was welcomed to Salem by John Gonda, president of the Salem Manufacturers' executive vice president.

Harry Heckathorn, and Ralph Hawley, publisher of The News, also spoke briefly and Beauregard, who expects to make his home in Salem, responded.

Emeny Tells Kiwanians Of Japan Visit In '40

An interesting talk on the habits and characteristics of the Japanese people was presented to Kiwanis club members at their meeting in the Memorial building yesterday by George Emeny who visited Japan six years ago.

In discussing the peculiarities in the makeup of a Jap, Emeny told how the Nipponese could be unapproachably honest in some situations and yet could not be trusted in any dealings where money is concerned. He also remarked on the immaculate appearance of the interior of Jap homes in contrast to garbage and tin-can littered yards and streets.

After exhibiting many pictures of places which the Japs had forbidden to be photographed by any visitors, Emeny remarked that the penalty for this action is 200 years imprisonment.

Fred Limestahl was program chairman.

Gestapo Chieftain Watched Killings

By NOLAND NORGAARD

RUERNBERG, Jan. 25.—Fifty Russian officers and political commissars were executed as a special treat for Gestapo Chieftain Heinrich Himmler at Mauthausen murder camp in September, 1944, and 47 American and Dutch fliers were tortured and stoned to death the same month, a former inmate testified today before the international military tribunal.

The witness, Maurice Lampe, a Frenchman, described the beatings and stonings of the fliers.

Barefooted and dressed only in their underwear, the fliers were taken before the S.S. commandant and told they were condemned to death for trying to escape.

When one of the American officers requested the privilege of dying like a soldier he was beaten, Lampe related.

SOLUTION IN STEEL STRIKE STILL SOUGHT

Both Fairless and Truman Stand Pat; Related Industries Hurt

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 25.—The nationwide steel strike bit deeper into related industries today, with no hint either union or management plans a new move to bridge the 3 1/2 cents an hour wage gap that has kept 750,000 C.I.O.-Steelworkers idle the last five days.

More than 50 coal mines were closed in four states, with 17,000 miners idle. About 5,000 workers were furnished by railroads serving steel mills.

The Ford Motor Co. announced it was threatened with "a complete shutdown unless the steel strike is settled speedily". A spokesman said 15,000 workers would be laid off tonight, another 25,000 in a week.

Fairless Stands Pat

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel Corp., which is the tactically accepted bargaining agent for most of the steel producers and fabricators, as well as ore mines and aluminum plants, reiterated his stand that 15 cents an hour is the highest raise the industry can pay.

President Truman rejected a suggestion from Fairless for an all-industry wage conference at the White House and reiterated his belief that management should grant the striking steel workers an 18 1/2 cents hourly wage increase he had recommended previously.

The President said he believes it is not practical to seize the industry at this time.

Henry J. Kaiser, west coast steel producer, suggested the steel strike could be solved by granting workers an increase of approximately 18 1/2 cents an hour plus an incentive bonus for high production.

Kaiser has accepted the 13 1/2-cent figure for his Fontana, Calif., plant.

Legislation Proposed

Legislation which might have an effect on the strike was introduced in the house of representatives yesterday by Rep. Eberhart (D., Pa.). It was a bill intended to deny tax refund claims by corporations for the time their plants were closed by strikes.

Eberhart declared the U. S. Steel Corp. "led the rest of the Old Man Winter laid aside his indifference early today, became serious and turned up with blizzards in two sections of the nation.

And the weather man predicts some drops in temperatures for other regions later Saturday and Sunday.

A New England blizzard came during an eight to 20-inch snowfall. Heavy winds from a storm centered off Nantucket.

A cold wave sweeping over the northern plains produced blizzard conditions in the Dakotas and eastern Montana. The central states will feel the cold wave effects Saturday.

Jules Verne Feat

Army Completes Radar Contact With The Moon

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The army today claimed the world's first scientific contact with the moon in a Jules Verne feat which spanned 238,000 miles of outer space by radar.

Government astronomers said the achievement might lead to the answer of the age-old question whether any form of life exists on the moon.

Another possibility was that it might usher in radio control for super-range jet or rocket projectiles which could be kept hovering ominously above the earth in the stratosphere.

The War department reported that the results of the experiment promise "valuable peacetime as well as wartime applications."

First Contact Jan. 10

The first radar contact with the moon was made Jan. 10, it was disclosed last night, and the feat has been successfully repeated.

The experiment has been carried out by Signal Corps scientists, working at the Evans signal laboratory at Belmar on the New Jersey coastline.

It took only two and a half seconds, the report revealed, for a radar echo to bounce back from the moon, normally about 238,857 miles distant from the earth.

Equipment used in the test shot radar pulses out into space at the speed of light—186,000 miles per second—and other apparatus picked up the returning echo.

The War department acknowledged it was impossible at this stage to forecast what the success of the experiment would make possible.

The War department said it may be possible with the aid of radar data to construct detailed topographical maps of distant planets, and also to determine the composition and atmospheric characteristics of these bodies.

CHIEF NAMED TO VACANCY ON COUNCIL

Federation Is Strengthened By Addition of 500,000 Mine Workers

(By Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 25.—AFL President William Green today announced the reaffiliation of John L. Lewis and his 500,000 United Mine Workers with the American Federation of Labor.

Lewis immediately was elected to the vacancy on the executive council created by the withdrawal of Harvey W. Brown, president of the machinists, whose 700,000 dropped out of the federation in October, 1943.

Green said Lewis would attend next week's sessions of the council, expected to be merely routine.

Sees United Labor Front

Green said the return of the miners was "significant" because of the emphasis "upon the need for unity and solidarity."

"I interpret this step taken by the mine workers as evidence of their determination to wipe out the division of labor and to establish unity," Green told a news conference.

"It might be interpreted as a move designed to place the house of labor in order. It will have a profound effect upon the expansion and development of a united labor movement."

An informant, who asked that his name be withheld, said Lewis is on his way from Springfield, Ill., to Miami to formally bury his differences with his old-time colleagues on the AFL executive council now meeting at Miami—barring some unforeseen developments.

Lewis left the American Federation of Labor in 1936 to form the CIO, and later left that organization for his United Mine Workers.

Lewis has been flirting with the federation since he left the CIO in 1942. Once he paid his per capita tax for return to the AFL but he did not like the terms the executive council imposed on him and asked for return of the check for approximately $48,000.

Farmers Hear Dr. Scott At Closing Institute Session

The first secret of a worthwhile life is to exercise faith in Almighty God, Dr. James Alexander Scott, pastor of the Methodist church, told urban and rural folk when he answered the question, "What Is Life For?" at the closing session of the 15th Salem Farmers Institute last night in the High school auditorium.

One of the secrets of a worthwhile life, according to Dr. Scott, is to learn to find happiness in the common round and daily task. "No task is too humble or too mean to be well done," he said. "If you do your best and live righteously God is on your side."

He said keep your motives as pure as you can in this kind of a world and take your limitations and make them assets.

Dr. Scott declares he is an optimist and that despite the present labor crisis he believes that America will go forward to the greatest prosperity the country has ever known.

Youth Ensemble Heard

Salem's newest musical unit, the Salem Youth Ensemble, directed by Capt. Robert H. Barton of the Salvation Army, presented a fine musical program, including a fine number, "Homeward Bound," "Torchbearer's March," "Depth of Mercy," "Greenwood Lake" and "Montreal Citadel." "Greenwood Lake" is Capt. Barton's own composition.

The ensemble includes William Scullion, first trumpet; Robert Hodge, first trumpet; Richard Dougherty, second trumpet; Chester Brautigam, solo horn; Oliver Matls, first alto; Irene Fleischer, euphonium; Richard Tice, trombone; Fred Groner, bombone and Walter Kraus, tuba.

Joe Greenwood sang two vocal solos, "The Desert Song" and "Sweet Dreams, Sweetheart." Capt. Barton played the accompaniment. Mr. Greenwood recently came from East Liverpool to Salem to make his home.

The Salem Business bureau arranged for the program.

Is Seizure Part of the Pattern?

A pattern of developments has been noted in C.I.O. strikes. It begins with agitation of opinion inside the union and is accompanied by a barrage of propaganda laid down on the public. There is a request for a strike vote under the Connally-Smith Act. The vote is taken and shows a majority of those voting in favor of the strike. The union then makes a demand on management, the demand is too extreme to be compromised, and a strike is called. A fact-finding commission appointed by the White House submits recommendations for a settlement. The union accepts the recommendations. Management does not. The strike is continued.

To this pattern that has emerged is added another and momentous step. With or without the recommendations of a fact-finding commission, government seizes the industry and invites its employees to return. This step has been taken in the meat packing industry. It has uncertain legal authority and is destined to have uncertain consequences. In the meat packing industry, the question arose immediately as to whether C.I.O. employees would return without being given the wage increases they were demanding.

To give them the increases with the government in control would entail continuing the increases when the rightful owners recovered their property. Or, it would mean permanent government operation. Collective bargaining would be a mockery. Every prospect of returning to a free enterprise system with the government reverting to its proper role of umpire would be ruined. Whoever talked Mr. Truman into ordering seizure of meat packing plants talked him out of his professed faith in collective bargaining.

Picture Album For Our Children

The widely-published picture of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower backed into a corner of the House office building by a delegation of wives demanding that their soldier husbands be returned home will be preserved in the files of newspapers and magazines for posterity to look at if the occasion arises. Will we be proud of ourselves in 1966?

The thing most to be dreaded is the possible military resurgence of Germany and Japan. The purpose of Allied occupation is to avert the mistake made after 1918, when Germany was allowed to revive its militarism without opposition. The children of men—and women—who longed to put World War I behind them too soon fought and died in World War II.

The children of the men who fought for the United States in World War II will be the fighting men in World War III, if it happens. If it does, they will have the right to ask why their parents did not finish the job. They will be entitled to an answer that makes more sense than the answer implied in pictures like that of the army chief of staff confronted by soldiers' wives. It amounts to saying that the job requires too much sacrifice.

Fortunately, awareness of the awful implications of World War III is not wholly lacking in the midst of the pressure campaign to bring all the men home, regardless of ability to replace them with fresh troops, regardless of commitments. It is manifest in such warnings as the current moving picture short, "Hitler Lives". It is finding expression in every premonition that World War II was not the end of all war but only a climax in the struggle of warrior nations for supremacy. Germany, since the time of Bismarck, has been the world's most feared warrior nation. In 1946 it still is the ghastliest potential source of another blood bath for civilization, unless its defeat is clinched by long and hard vigilance.

Horrid Words

The long and distinguished history of the United States Congress is smirched here and there by doings unworthy of that eminent body. There have been one or two canings, a few fist fights, and some rather nasty name-calling. But we venture to guess that none of these shocked the members themselves so much as an incident which took place just the other day.

The culprit in the matter was Rep. William Thom, an Ohio Democrat. In the course of some otherwise innocuous remarks he referred to Senator Taft as—and we shudder to repeat it—"Senator Taft".

Naturally, this threw the House into a dither. A Republican member jumped to his feet to inquire whether it was in accordance with the rules to "mention the name of a member of another body".

Acting Speaker McCormack responded with this opinion which, if accurately reported, must set a new House record for qualifying phrases in one sentence: "Speaking only for myself, in general, the names of members of the other body are, in my opinion, in most instances not used on the House floor."

Neither Mr. McCormack nor any of his colleagues could open a book to the official ruling which makes S-n-t-r a horrid word. But that didn't matter. It was like asking someone to find the official rule prohibiting a man from tucking his napkin into his collar at a formal dinner. Everyone present knew that it just isn't done.

Why? Tradition, probably—inherited from the English, like our sailor's uniform. Anyway, there is probably no worse insult possible to a congressman than to have one of his colleagues refer to him by his proper name while the body of which he is a member is in session.

Such a statement as "the learned senator from So-and-So is a blackguard and a scoundrel" might distress the person in question only slightly. But if a colleague should arise and say to him, "Senator Blowhard, we admire you and the people love you," it would be a slap in the face.

Even the use of the second person is frowned on in addressing a colleague. It's always "Will the gentleman yield?" or "I thank the senator". To utter just a plain "Thank you" during congressional working hours would be about like introducing the adjective "bloody" into a polite London drawing-room conversation.

A member of Congress may campaign with a hill-billy jug band, or be the world's worst publicity hound. But on the floor he is so courtly and punctilious that it's painful. In the House it is possible to get away with calling a man a gentleman. But in the Senate if one member refers to another any more briefly than as "the able and distinguished junior senator from East Dakota" it's practically a snub.

It is staggering to think how much time has been wasted by these knightly circumlocutions of direct address, and how much more rewarding work might have been accomplished by their elimination. Yet none of the pending congressional reorganization bills has suggested streamlining the members' oratory. Perhaps it's just as well. It might be a little disillusioning if all the able and distinguished gentlemen were permitted to address one another frankly, with no oral holds barred.

Still Going Our Way

The Daily Worker, voice of the Communist party in the United States, is so hopeful about the strike epidemic it has published advice to American workers.

The general idea of this advice is that the workers can win this battle in class warfare if they concentrate on their grievances, shutting out everything else, including arguments to the contrary, management, mediators, even government, and if they use discipline and propaganda to keep themselves unified; i.e., on the good old party line.

In other words, the Communist party has surveyed the strike scene and thinks things are going its way.

Using the same freedom of speech that encourages The Daily Worker to feel optimistic, some of the rest of us have a right to feel more optimistic than many of us say we feel about the outlook—but for another reason.

There are some Americans who have swallowed Communism's red flannel bait without noticing or caring about the dictatorial hook hidden in it. There are some strikers and some strike leaders who are determined to rule or ruin, who think they are at Argaddon in class warfare. But they are a minority. The current strikes apparently have no more Communism in them than Americans are accustomed to tolerate, which isn't much.

The United States isn't ready to be bowled over by the bully boys of the Comintern. There is one rule still going stronger here than anything we're likely to read about in The Daily Worker.

It's the rule that Americans always succeed in working out better answers for their problems than the imported varieties. It has taken two wars with England, two with Germany, one with Spain, one with Italy and one with Japan, besides minor brushes, to carry the point. But it's still intact, as Communism's Mr. Fixits will rediscover when the strikes are settled and they're nothing to look forward to but the next edition of The Daily Worker.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, January 26.

THERE may be a speeding up of energies, with the ambition to tackle static or congested conditions by concentrated industry born of fresh ways and means for breaking up lagging situations. The forces and faculties are spurred by a spirit of initiative and energies to get things done and in a big and telling way. Bright ideas and plans are backed up by practical and constructive efforts.

Those whose birthday it is may be spurred to initiative and enterprise by some really constructive ways of speeding up crystallized and stagnant situations by bold strokes of plan and determined purpose. Postponements and laziness are spurred on by fresh ambitions and enterprise, with forces and faculties rising to wrestle with congestions and obstacles.

A child born on this day will have constructive and ambitious plans and objectives with the energies and initiative to put them across.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Rose Rash An Infant's Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THERE are some diseases which have severe symptoms but which are in no way serious. One of these is known as the rose rash of infancy, or exanthema subitum. Unfortunately, this is a difficult disease to diagnose and frequently the severe symptoms continue until the rash appears.

The cause of the disorder is not known. Epidemics of the disease have occurred, however. Most cases occur during the first two years of life and the disorder often develops during teething time. The mistake of calling it a teething rash is then apt to be made.

Early Spring
The disease is most frequent during the early spring. It starts with fever, which continues for from three to four days and then gradually the temperature drops to normal. The rash then develops usually over the trunk, neck, face, arms, and legs. The rash is much like that of measles and is pale red in color. The rash persists for from one to two days and then clears up.

Other symptoms include irritability and occasionally convulsions. The number of white cells in the blood is reduced to below normal. Complications do not occur very often. Occasionally, an ear infection may develop.

Rash Confusing
The rose rash of infancy may, for the time being, be confused with a number of other disorders such as measles, German measles, scarlet fever, and influenza. In view of the speed with which the symptoms clear up once the rash has developed, when this stage of the disorder is reached, there is not a great deal of difficulty in diagnosing it.

No particular treatment is necessary for exanthema subitum, since it gets well in practically all cases without any complications. Whenever severe symptoms develop in a baby, of course, the mother should have an immediate examination made by the physician.

He may not in all instances be able to tell exactly what is causing such symptoms as fever, but once the rash of exanthema subitum develops, the diagnosis is quickly made by him, and the parents can be reassured that the condition is in no way a dangerous one.

MACKENZIE'S Column

BY DE WITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

MADRID, Jan. 25.—There are several conclusions which I have reached regarding Chief of State Franco, both from general observation and from my unusual interview with him at the Pardo palace, and they are these:

He knows the goal for which he is headed. He believes that he is on the right road for the good of Spain. (Indeed I've heard it said that he feels he is predestined to lead the nation.) He is a man of granite convictions from which it is difficult to move him.

Now those are points which we must understand in order to arrive at a correct appraisal of El Caudillo's actions. Of course, the United States and other countries have taken bitter exception to many of the policies he has pursued. There was the Potsdam declaration which decreed that the Franco regime rendered Spain unable to participate in the United Nations organization.

There is small doubt, as I see it, that Spain is orienting its policy toward the United States and England. I told Generalissimo Franco the impression prevailed abroad that this was so, and asked for his comment. His reply, while couched in cautious terms which might be described as indirect lighting, would seem to confirm that idea, this is the way he put it:

"Neither during the Spanish national movement (civil war of 1936-39) nor after it did the Spanish government cease taking care of its relations with the United States and Great Britain, and even in those moments of the war when the passions and errors of others could have made those relations suffer, Spain sought to avoid those dangers with its serenity and good faith."

"You will understand that the situation of Spain was not easy. It had to defend its independence, which was threatened by the needs of the belligerents, and conserve at the same time the peace and friendship of all nations."

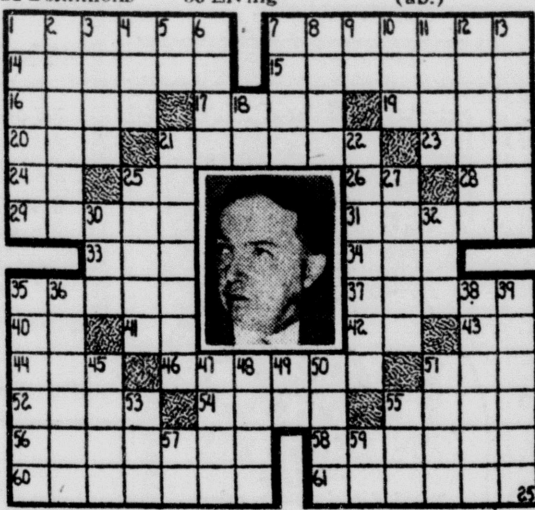

"Because of our civilizing work in America, and the numerous bonds which unite us, Spain considers itself a spiritual part of the American continent and feels attraction and admiration for the great accomplishments of North America, aspiring to a greater interchange in all respects. In view of this, as many Spaniards as possible are putting themselves into contact with the North American people and whenever North Americans visit us there is mutual understanding and esteem."

"With England we have had a century and a half of peace and good relations, and the interchanges of all kinds between our peoples are traditional."

"Before the war we esteemed the peace and comprehension that was to be found among the peoples of the west. Today we accept the lessons of the war and we consider them (peace and comprehension) still more necessary. North America, Great Britain and Spain are peoples who live on the shore of the same sea. The will and good faith of the Spanish nation along these lines cannot be disputed."

Cards were the chief pastime. The guests were let into the secret when a buffet lunch was served. The table was centered with a bouquet of white pompons and red carnations and enhanced with tall white tapers in silver candelabra. The names of the prospective bride and groom were inscribed in gold on red ribbon streamers between the candelabra.

XP-81, New Jet Fighter Plane, Undergoes Tests

DAYTON, Jan. 25.—The Army Air Corps' newest long-range jet fighter plane, the XP-81, now is being flight-tested. Air Technical Service command headquarters at Wright field announced today.

The metal monoplane has a gas turbine engine in front and a jet engine in the rear and can operate on either engine—or both. Specific figures were not announced, but ATSC officers said the new plane "can travel faster than any conventional fighter yet designed."

Built by Consolidated-Vultee aircraft, the XP-81's gas turbine engine converts jet power into rotational energy to drive the four-bladed propeller in the nose. The jet engine in the rear is the general electric 1-40, similar to the engine on the P-50 "Shooting Star." ATSC said.

Strike Waves In 1919 Left More Than Four Million Idle

BY MAX HALL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. — Yes, they had a wave of strikes after the First World War, too. In 1919 more workers went out on strike than in any other year in American history.

The Labor department says 4,160,348 workers were involved in work stoppages due to labor disputes in 1919.

Those who are fearful for America's future because of 1946 labor troubles might get some comfort out of reviewing the history of 1919.

It was a year of unrest. Unions struggled for higher wages to meet the soaring cost of living. They struggled for the 48-hour week. In some cases they struggled for recognition and for their very existence.

Many Remedies Were Tried
The nation was alarmed. There was much talk of agitators and Bolsheviks. Congress was urged to pass laws to prevent strikes. Many remedies for the unrest were proposed. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in an interview said the golden rule would bring labor peace. But both sides put more faith in economic force than in the golden rule. Generally speaking, they still do.

There was a big, bitter steel strike in 1919. AFL unions were determined to organize the steel workers. The companies fought back. They fired many union members. President Wilson tried to prevent the strike through conferences. He failed.

The strike began on Sept. 22. It involved about 367,000 workers. There were fights and riots. The steel industry was in turmoil for weeks, but the workers were badly ly split and the companies gradually managed to get the mills back into full operation.

By Dec. 14 the companies were calling the strike a "dead issue." The strike was such a failure that no serious attempt was made to organize steel workers until the CIO came along in the middle 1930's and organized them into one big union.

Coolidge Intervened

The famous Boston police strike took place in 1919. Boston policemen formed a union in August and went on strike in September. Violence swirled in Boston. President Wilson denounced the strike, but it was the governor of Massachusetts, Calvin Coolidge, who stepped in and took strong measures which broke the strike.

This made Coolidge's reputation. In the midst of the fight he was re-elected governor. A few days later a vice-presidential boom started for Coolidge. He was elected vice-president the following year, and became president when Warren G. Harding died.

Another man who won national prominence in the labor unrest of 1919 was John L. Lewis. As acting president of the United Mine Workers, he led a strike of 425,000 coal miners which began around Nov. 1. He was then 39 years old.

The coal miners wanted higher wages. Early in December, President Wilson made a compromise proposal which was accepted by the Union and the operators. The strike ended on Dec. 9.

Still Other Strikes

In 1919 there was a telephone strike. Strikes swept the shipbuilding industry, the textile industry, the building trades and street railways. A strike crippled New York harbor.

The first important city-wide—or general strike in the nation's history occurred in Seattle when about 60,000 workers left their jobs because of sympathy with striking metal workers in Seattle shipyards.

In 1919 they also had a labor-management conference. President Wilson called representatives of labor, industry and "the public" to meet in Washington. But the conference broke up when the labor group walked out.

They walked out because the industry group voted against collective bargaining.

Boyle's COLUMN

By HAL BOYLE

HONGKONG. — Leaves from a correspondent's notebook:

Only one icicle has been recorded in Hongkong's long and balmy history—and it was seen only by one man.

Legend has it that the icicle was found many years ago by a poor rickshaw coolie. He saw it hanging from a water pipe outside a hotel at the top of this colony's famous funicular railway. Having spent all his life in Hongkong's equable climate, the ignorant coolie thought he had come across some strange new gem—it glittered so brightly in the sunshine.

Tearing this foot-long treasure from the water pipe, he began running madly down the road to show his prize to the townspeople at the bottom of the hill.

Unfortunately, his strange cold "diamond" began to melt. The faster he ran the faster it melted in his warm hands.

Just as he reached the bottom of the hill the last of the icicle vanished. When the rickshaw coolie told his friends of his wonderful adventure and showed his dripping hands they laughed at him and called him dreamy fool. They thought he had gone punchy from pulling his rickshaw uphill.

And so, according to British colony weather boosters, perished the only icicle nature ever formed in sunny Hongkong.

British drivers love to speed along queens road in jeeps, and it takes an alert Chinese to keep from getting tire tracks on his back.

One young captain with whom I rode solemnly assured me, however, it wasn't the speed of his vehicle that threatened to decimate the pedestrian population.

"It's their blasted superstition that's responsible for so many close calls," he said, whizzing through one crowd like a lawnmower clipping through a patch of dandelions. "These blakes believe the devil is always on their tail and about to grab them. They figure if they can stand in your path until you are almost on them and then jump barely out of the way of your fender that you'll run over and kill the devil behind them."

If there is any truth in this, then Hongkong streets must be littered with invisible devils.

The Japs, who have adopted so many western culture patterns, are going in now for American slogans.

I remember one sign printed in a Tokyo newspaper office that read: "A conference is a group of people who individually can do nothing and collectively decide that nothing can be done. Wise decision and quick action."

Capt. Edward Lesage, veteran little British Navy commander, thinks the story of the disgruntled Aussie trooper in New Guinea is the best anecdote of the Pacific war.

Sweating out a Japanese bombardment in a jungle mudpuddle, the Aussie complained:

"Look at me hat—hanging over me ears it's that large. Look at me uniform—big enough to wrap twice around. Look at me boots—mud quishing up through them. Look at me rifle—mud all over it. And inspection coming up in 10 minutes."

Just then a Japanese shell landed in his mudpuddle and blew him up among the clouds. But this heavenly station didn't change his disposition.

"Look at me halo," he mourned in disgust. "It hangs on me ears. Look at me white nightgown—big enough to go around me six times. Look at me sandals—with clouds squishing up through me toes. Look at me harp—four strings broke. And me with inspection coming up in 10 more minutes."

ranged this program and President Harold Smith presided.

The other programs were arranged by five granges, Salem, Perry, Goshen, Willow Grove and Mt. Nebo, with which the bureau cooperates in sponsoring the institute.

Institute Attendance 2,150

The attendance for the two days is estimated at 2,150. At the last institute in 1942, it was discontinued on account of the war, the attendance for the two days was 2,350, records show.

It takes intelligence and the best brains of the country to run a farm right, in the opinion of Miss Carrie A. Wilson of Sunbury, who discussed "Rewards of Rural Life" at the Thursday afternoon session.

Pure air, an attribute to good health, quiet, sunshine, good fresh food and security were some of the rewards of rural life pointed out by the speaker.

Speaking on the theme, "The Church Meeting Human Needs," Atty. Charles W. Peters of Minerva, the other state speaker, said, "Too many men have their religion in their wife's name." He brought out the thought that the men leave too much of the church work for the women to do.

steel industry in thumbing its nose at the President" in rejecting his 18½ cents hourly wage proposal, and added:

"Under our present tax laws, if the arrogant rule or ruin attitude of the steel trust results in the production in 1946 of not a single ounce of steel, the treasury of the United States may be called upon to deliver to the steel companies in the form of tax refunds amounts estimated to run as high as $145,000,000."

The strike was beginning to pinch at Alliquippa, Pa., where 10,000 Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. workers are on strike. A grocer said "We're beginning to feel it. The wives are buying more frugally."

Urge Separation

The Tri-State Industrial association, representing 56 strike-bound steel fabricators in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, renewed a demand that it be allowed to bargain individually with the union and said its members "should not be blanketed with 'big steel' in their ability or inability to pay wage increases."

The statement said the union had offered to sign contracts granting an 18½ cent raise but had refused to enter into negotiations.

The government of the republic of Lebanon said last night it had ordered its United Nations delegation to present to the council Lebanon's demand for immediate withdrawal of British and French troops from her soil.

At the same time some delegates asserted Egypt might present still another case.

Egypt, which has been demanding evacuation of British troops stationed there, was in the midst of a cabinet crisis with three ministers threatening to resign, asserting that Foreign Minister Abdel Hamid Badawin Pasha had declared he would not ask the U.N.O. to intervene.

Questions and Answers On Problems of the Servicemen

WASHINGTON — Veterans and home builders have sent in the following questions regarding the government's new program which will provide hard-to-get construction materials for housing for veterans.

Q. I am a veteran and have already started some buildings which will not meet the standards set up in the priority system. They will cost more than $10,000. What am I to do for building materials which are short?

A. Only 50 per cent of the critical building materials come under the priority program. You will just have to wait your turn for those items.

Q. I plan to start building a house soon for a group of veterans. But suppose something unforeseen over which I have no control—such as an increase in the ceiling price of materials or labor costs—happens during construction to raise my costs out of proportion to the price approved for my housing units? Can I get any relief?

A. You can appeal for an ad- justment of your sales or rental price. But if the adjustment would raise the price above the ceiling limitation of $10,000 on sales or $80 on rentals, special appeal must be made and unusual hardship proven.

Q. I think I can build a house better than most of the contractors in my town. Can a veteran build his house himself, or buy his materials and hire his own carpenters, etc., under the new government program for priorities for veterans?

A. Yes. His application for a priority will receive exactly the same treatment as that of a professional builder.

Q. Can a person re-sell or rent a dwelling unit built under the reconversion housing program for a profit and to anyone?

A. No. He cannot sell to anyone at a profit. During the life of the new regulations he must rent or sell at the ceiling price, and he must publicly offer the unit for rent or sale to veterans for 30 days.

Q. Does the new housing program for veterans apply to Merchant Seamen?

A. Any person who served in the U. S. Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Marine Corps or Merchant Marine during World War II and who was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable—is eligible.

Who pays the wages?

Men and women who work for wages get their pay checks from the company. Where does the company get its money?

Obviously, from the sale of its products. In other words, from other men and women who buy what workers make.

Most of what the customer pays goes for wages, directly and indirectly.

If workers ask too much for their services, the prices of the products they make get too high. Fewer customers are able to buy.

The result is fewer sales and fewer jobs.

For the sake of employees, just as much as for the sake of investors, management must keep in mind the fact that the customer pays the wages.

Thus, in the long run sales and jobs grow from a proper balance between wages and prices.

A Sports Memo--

QUALITY AND QUANTITY are not often mates. With that in mind, it is the intention of this column to limit itself to utilization only when the time and the material are at hand to make passing along whatever is to be passed along well worth the space.

It is the humble opinion of this column that sports columns in general, especially in papers this size, are too often devoted to the rather unethical purpose of filling space with one guy's opinions—which usually are not any better, and often not as good, as those of Mr. Average Fan.

Consequently, we shall bend over backwards to keep our opinions to ourselves, except in cases when it becomes obvious that our opinions are well enough accepted and pertinent to no longer look like "one guy's opinion".

WE HAVE JUST such a case today. It involves a comparatively new organization in Salem, the Salem Athletic club, a group of young men who have banded together primarily to play baseball under that name.

The baseball idea is a good one and the Athletics have given Salem a good portion of something it had lacked for several years. The games here brought a high-class of out-of-town competition to our park and provided a lot of the "Grand Old Game" for ball-starved fans during the past two seasons.

Furthermore, with servicemen coming back by the droves, it appears that Salem's baseball should be on the upgrade next summer and the play commensurately more interesting and fan-drawing.

So much for the generalities. Here's the point:

A CENTENNIAL park benefit game was played last summer, between the Salem A. C. and a Dormant All-Star club, supposedly to raise funds for the improvement of the park baseball diamond. The out-of-town group, which featured Paul Waner, ex-Pittsburgh Pirate, was paid either $200 or $300 to play here. The balance over and above expenses of the game, was to be turned over to the park commission to improve the park.

Fans may remember that on that same day the Athletic club did considerable damage to the regular baseball diamond in a futile attempt to drag a comparatively rain-soaked diamond. The game had to be played on another field as a result, and softball play was halted for three days.

The point of the whole thing is this: To date the money raised under pretense of a park benefit game has never been turned over to the park commission.

We do not know why. We do know, however, that this newspaper contributed considerable in time, space and effort to make that benefit game a success, fully believing at the time that we were assisting a good cause—for the park was in need of funds for improvement.

RATHER THAN BE made to look like easy bait, The News insists that this money be produced by the Athletic club and turned over to the proper authorities. That has not yet been done, and the game here was played fully five or six months ago!

"Toar" Julian To Wrestle In Feature Of Memorial Building Card Wednesday

Proteges of the grunt and groan sport, long an absent feature on the local agenda, will be back again at the Memorial building at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Salem's own Frank "Toar" Julian, a former Salem High football tackle, will be featured in the main match, grueling on the canvas with Jules "Speed" LaRance, a former title contender in the lightweight division.

In two other bouts Martin Angelo of Oklahoma, who fought Walter Stratton of Leontina in one of the last matches staged in Salem about 12 years ago, will take on Bob Blake of Columbus.

The No. 2 bout will feature George Strickland, a Chicago lad, against Bob Cummings, also an Illinois product.

Julian, who most fans here remember as a mountainous 275-pound youth on the football squad in 1936, has achieved considerable fame as a professional wrestler, both in South America and this country.

Down South America way Julian was known as Frank Marconi and participated in nearly 400 wrestling events, a large majority of which he won. He was rated champion of South America last year.

If one series of battles the Salemite won first place medal in an extended tournament with 36 other wrestlers. A series of matches were staged throughout the southern section of the Western hemisphere and Julian came out on top.

While being bounced around down there the Salem wrestler dropped some 40 pounds, now weighing in at a muscular 225 pounds. He also has acquired, besides his somewhat slimmer makeup, a pair of cauliflower ears.

Kept Hopping The wrestling circuit has kept Julian and the others busy since their return to the states. He took part in a card at the Cleveland arena last night and is scheduled to perform in Buffalo tonight.

Saturday he will give an exhibition for fans against another Salemite, one of the Wukedich brothers, at the American Legion's Salem-East Liverpool basketball game at the High school gym tonight.

Julian remarked yesterday that he could not understand the lack of feminine interest in wrestling in Salem. He says that in other communities where the shows are staged, nearly 50 per cent of the spectators are women.

"Toronto, Canada," the wrestler says, "is a regular 'bobby sox' town when it comes to wrestling."

Jerry Layton is handling all arrangements for the match here.

Managers Well Paid

Of these, Ott Cronin and Boudreau are playing managers, although Cronin may be confined to a pinch-hitting role this year. Other pilots, non-active, past the 20-grand figure include Joe McCarthy, Yankees; Connie Mack, Philadelphia Athletics; Leo Durocher, Dodgers; Billy Southworth, Boston Braves, and Bill McKechnie, Cincinnati.

Feller's $40,000 for '46 is the highest sum ever paid to a pitcher for one year's work.

Prior to the advent of Babe Ruth and his home run bat in 1920, stumps of more than $10,000 were unheard of. Ty Cobb, generally regarded as the greatest player of all time, had to wait until his declining days to receive his top salary of $50,000 from the Athletics for the 1927 season. Lou Gehrig, with the 1938 Yankees; Rogers Hornsby, with the 1930 Cubs; and Bill Terry, with the Giants in the late '30's, drew $40,000 each.

apiece while Snyder shared honors with them as he counted six for the Rams.

The Columbiana Buckeyes wound up in second place through a 37-31 victory over the Cavaliers who played two games last night and managed to break even. The Cavs thumped the Corner, 48-36, in one of the early games on the slate last night.

DeJene, Drotteff Star

Drotteff, with 14 points, was the top scorer for the Bucks while Don "Duck" DeJene came through with 15 for the Cavaliers.

In the Cavs win over the Corner, DeJene took high point laurels with a 21-point outburst while Parlow counted 13. Rudy Maroscher and "Sarge" Ware paced the Corner with 14 and 11 tallies respectively.

After four consecutive losses, Lipperts finally broke into the win column at the expense of the Wolverines, 29-26, as Ingledue and Al Zoccollo led the way. The two men collected 22 of their team's 29 point total. Harp's 10 markers was the outstanding performance for the losers.

Dies In Auto Crash

KENTON, Jan. 25.—Donald Lewis, 23, discharged Zanesville veteran, was killed yesterday in an automobile accident. Lewis was enroute from Zanesville to Ohio Northern university where he intended to enroll.

Navy Coach

Managers Well Paid

Of these, Ott Cronin and Boudreau are playing managers, although Cronin may be confined to a pinch-hitting role this year. Other pilots, non-active, past the 20-grand figure include Joe McCarthy, Yankees; Connie Mack, Philadelphia Athletics; Leo Durocher, Dodgers; Billy Southworth, Boston Braves, and Bill McKechnie, Cincinnati.

Feller's $40,000 for '46 is the highest sum ever paid to a pitcher for one year's work.

Prior to the advent of Babe Ruth and his home run bat in 1920, stumps of more than $10,000 were unheard of. Ty Cobb, generally regarded as the greatest player of all time, had to wait until his declining days to receive his top salary of $50,000 from the Athletics for the 1927 season. Lou Gehrig, with the 1938 Yankees; Rogers Hornsby, with the 1930 Cubs; and Bill Terry, with the Giants in the late '30's, drew $40,000 each.

CRIMINAL TRIALS WILL BEGIN SOON

LISBON, Jan. 25—Criminal trials probably will be assigned the week of Feb. 18 for those who have entered pleas of not guilty to indictments returned by the January grand jury, Judge Joel H. Sharp indicated today.

The criminal assignment will follow the first degree murder trial of Mrs. Olive May Long of Wells-ville for the drowning of her 16-month-old daughter, Edna Irene, in the Ohio river, and the sanity trial of James Vaughn of Columbiana, charged with assault and battery.

The murder trial is scheduled to open Feb. 4 and will probably require more than a week, attorneys indicated, and the sanity trial will take place before the trial of criminal cases.

Bessie Green, alias Betty Hood, alias Mrs. George Minder, of Wells-ville, entered a plea of not guilty to an indictment charging bigamy, when she was brought before Judge Sharp yesterday and in default of $1,500 bond she was returned to the Mahoning county jail to await trial.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.
